ومن كلام له (عليه السلام) قاله للاشعث بن قيس وهو على منبر الكوفة يخطب فمضى في بعض كلامه شيء اعترضه الاشعث، فقال: يا أميرالمؤمنين، هذه عليك لا لك، فخفض (عليه السلام) إليه بصره ثم قال:

Amīr al-mu'minīn was delivering a lecture from the pulpit of (the mosque of) Kūfah when al-Ash'ath ibn Qays [1] objected and said, "O Amīr al-mu'minīn this thing is not in your favour but against you." [2] Amīr al-mu'minīn looked at him with anger and said:

How do you know what is for me and what is against me?! Curse of Allāh and others be on you. You are a weaver and son of a weaver. You are the son of an unbeliever and yourself a hypocrite. You were arrested once by the Unbelievers and once by the Muslims, but your wealth and birth could not save you from either. The man who contrives for his own people to be put to sword and invites death and destruction for them does deserve that the near ones should hate him and the remote ones should not trust him.

as-Sayyid ar-Raḍī says: This man was arrested once when an unbeliever and once in days of Islam. As for Amīr al-mu'minīn's words that the man contrived for his own people to be put to sword, the reference herein is to the incident which occurred to al-Ash'ath ibn Qays in confrontation with Khālid ibn Walid at Yamāmah, where he deceived his people and contrived a trick till Khālid attacked them. After this incident his people nicknamed him "'Urf an-Nār" which in the parlance stood for traitor.

[1] AL-ASH'ATH IBN QAYS AL-KINDĪ

His original name was Ma'di Karib and surname Abu Muḥammad but because of his dishevelled hair he is better known as al-Ash'ath (one having dishevelled hair). When after Proclamation (of Prophethood) he came to Mecca along with his tribe, the Prophet invited him and his tribe to accept Islam. But all of them turned back without anyone accepting Islam. When after hijrah (immigration of the Holy Prophet) Islam became established and in full swing and deputations began to come to Medina in large numbers he also came to the Prophet's audience with Banu Kindah and accepted Islam. The author of al-Isti'āb writes that after the Prophet this man again turned unbeliever but when during the Caliphate of Abu Bakr he was brought to Medina as prisoner he again accepted Islam, though this time too his Islam was a show. Thus, ash-Shaykh Muḥammad 'Abduh writes in his annotations on Nahj al-balāghah:

Just as 'Abdullah ibn Ubay ibn Salul was a companion of the Prophet, al-Ash'ath was a companion of 'Ali and both were high ranking hypocrites.

He lost one of his eyes in the battle of Yarmuk. Ibn Qutaybah has included him in the list of the one-eyed. Abu Bakr's sister Umm Farwah bint Abi Quḥafah, who was once the wife of an al-Azdi and then of Tamim ad-Dārimi, was on the third occasion married to this al-Ash'ath. Three sons were born of her viz. Muḥammad, Ismail and Is'hāq. Books on biography show that she was blind. Ibn Abi'l-Ḥadīd has quoted the following statement of Abu'l-Faraj wherefrom it appears that this man was equally involved in the assassination of 'Ali (a.s.):

On the night of the assassination Ibn Muljam came to al-Ash'ath ibn Qays and both retired to a corner of the mosque and sat there when Ḥujr ibn 'Adi passed by that side and he heard al-Ash'ath saying to Ibn Muljam, "Be quick now or else dawn's light would disgrace you." On hearing this Ḥujr said to al-Ash'ath, "O one-eyed man, you are preparing to kill 'Ali" and hastened towards 'Ali ibn Abi Ṭālib, but Ibn Muljam had preceded him and struck `Ali with sword when Ḥujr turned back people were crying, "'Ali has been killed."

It was his daughter who killed Imam Ḥasan (a.s.) by poisoning him. Mas'udi has written that:

His (Ḥasan's) wife Ja'dah bint al-Ash'ath poisoned him while Mu'āwiyah had conspired with her that if she could contrive to poison Hasan he would pay her one hundred thousand Dirhams and marry her to Yazid. (Murūj adh-dhahab, vol. 2, p. 650)

His son Muḥammad ibn al-Ash'ath was active in playing fraud with Hadrat Muslim ibn 'Aqil in Kūfah and in shedding Imam Ḥusayn's blood in Karbala. But despite all these points he is among those from whom al-Bukhari, Muslim, Abu Dawud, at-Tirmidhi, an-Nasa'i and Ibn Majah have related traditions.

[2] After the battle of Nahrawan, Amīr al-mu'minīn was delivering a sermon in the mosque of Kufah about ill effects of "Arbitration" when a man stood up and said, "O Amīr al-mu'minīn, first you desisted us from this Arbitration but thereafter you allowed it. We cannot understand which of these two was more correct and proper." On hearing this Amīr al-mu'minīn clapped his one hand over the other and said, "This is the reward of one who gives up firm view" that is, this is the outcome of your own actions as you had abandoned firmness and caution and insisted on "Arbitration," but al-Ash'ath mistook it to mean as though Amīr al-mu'minīn implied that "my worry was due to having accepted Arbitration," so he spoke out, "O Amīr al-mu'minīn this brings blame on your own self" whereupon Amir al-mu'minin said harshly:

What do you know what I am saying, and what do you understand what is for me or against me. You are a weaver and the son of a weaver brought up by unbelievers and a hypocrite. Curse of Allāh and all the world be upon you.

Commentators have written several reasons for Amīr al-mu'minīn calling al-Ash'ath a weaver. First reason is, because he and his father like most of the people of his native place pursued the industry of weaving cloth. So, in order to refer to the lowliness of his occupation he has been called `weaver'. Yamanese had other occupations also but mostly this profession was followed among them. Describing their occupations Khālid ibn Safwān has mentioned this one first of all. What can I say about a people among whom there are only weavers, leather dyers, monkey keepers and donkey riders. The hoopoe found them out, the mouse flooded them and a woman ruled over them. (al-Bayān wa't-tabyin, vol. 1, p. 130)

The second reason is that "hiyakah" means walking by bending on either side, and since out of pride and conceit this man used to walk shrugging his shoulders and making bends in his body, he has been called "hāyik".

The third reason is — and it is more conspicuous and clear — that he has been called a weaver to denote his foolishness and lowliness because every low person is proverbially known as a weaver. Their wisdom and sagacity can be well gauged by the fact that their follies had become proverbial, while nothing attains proverbial status without peculiar characteristics. Now, that Amīr al-mu'minīn has also confirmed it no further argument or reasoning is needed.

The fourth reason is that by this is meant the person who conspires against Allāh and the Holy Prophet and prepares webs of which is the peculiarity of hypocrites. Thus, in Wasā'il ash-Shi'ah (vol. 12, p. 101) it is stated: It was mentioned before Imam Ja'far as-Sādiq (p.b.u.h.) that the weaver is accursed when he explained that the weaver implies the person who concocts against Allah and the Prophet.

After the word weaver Amīr al-mu'minīn has used the word hypocrite, and there is no conjunction in between them in order to emphasise the nearness of meaning thereof. Then, on the basis of this hypocrisy and concealment of truth he declared him deserving of the curse of Allāh and all others, as Allāh the Glorified says: "Verily, those that conceal what we have sent of (Our) manifest evidences and guidance, after what we have (so) clearly shown for man-kind in the Book (they are), those that Allāh doth curse them and (also) curse them all those who curse (such ones)." (Qur'ān, 2:159)

After this Amīr al-mu'minīn says that "You could not avoid the de-gradation of being prisoner when you were unbeliever, nor did these ignominies spare you after acceptance of Islam, and you were taken prisoner." When an unbeliever the event of his being taken prisoner occurred in this way that when the tribe of Banu Murād killed his father Qays, he (al-Ash'ath) collected the warriors of Banu Kindah and divided them in three groups. Over one group he himself took the command, and on the others he placed Kabs ibn Hāni and al-Qash'am ibn Yazid al-Argam as chiefs, and set off to deal with Banu Murad. But as misfortune would have it instead of Banu Murad he attacked Banu al-Harith ibn Ka'b. The result was that Kabs ibn Hani' and al-Qash'am ibn Yazid alArgam were killed and this man was taken prisoner alive. Eventually he got a release by paying three thousand camels as ransom. In Amīr al-mu'minīn's words, "Your wealth or birth could not save you from either," the reference is not to real 'fidyah' (release money) because he was actually released on payment of release money but the intention is that neither plenty of wealth nor his high position and prestige in his tribe could save him from this ignominy, and he could not protect himself from being a prisoner.

The event of his second imprisonment is that when the Holy Prophet of Islam passed away from this world a rebellion occurred in the region of Hadramawt for repelling which Caliph Abu Bakr wrote to the governor of the place Ziyād ibn Labid al-Bayadi al-Ansari that he should secure allegiance and collect zakat and charities from those people. When Ziyād ibn Labid went to the tribe of Banal 'Amr ibn Mu'āwiyah for collection of zakāt he took keen fancy for a she-camel of Shaytān ibn Ḥujr which was very hand-some and of huge body. He jumped over it and took possession of it. Shaytān ibn Ḥujr did not agree to spare it and said to him to take over some other she-camel in its place but Ziyād would not agree. Shaytān sent for his brother al-'Adds' ibn Ḥujr for his support. On coming he too had a talk but Ziyād insisted on his point and did not, by any means, consent to keep off his hand from that she-camel. At last both these brothers appealed to Masrug ibn Ma'di Karib for help. Consequently, Masruq also used his influence so that Ziyād might leave the she-camel but he refused categorically, whereupon Masrug became enthusiastic and untying the she-camel handed it over to Shaytan. On this Ziyad was infuriated and collecting his men became ready to fight. On the other side Banu Wali'ah also assembled to face them, but could not defeat Ziyād and were badly beaten at his hands. Their women were taken away and property was looted. Eventually those who had survived were obliged to take refuge under the protection of al-Ash'ath. al-Ash'ath promised assistance on the condition that he should be acknowledged ruler of the area. Those people agreed to this condition and his coronation was also formally solemnised. After having his authority acknowledged he arranged an army and set out to fight Ziyad. On the other side Abu Bakr had written to the chief of Yemen, al-Muhajir ibn Abi Umayyah to go for the help of Ziyād with a contingent. Al-Muhajir was coming with his contingent when they came face to face. Seeing each other they drew swords and commenced fighting at az-Zurgan. In the end al-Ash'ath fled from the battle-field and taking his remaining men closed himself in the fort of an-Nujayr. The enemy was such as to let them alone. They laid siege around the fort. al-Ash'ath thought how long could he remain shut up in the fort with this lack of equipment and men, and that he should think out some way of escape. So one night he stealthily came out of the fort and met Ziyād and al-Muhajir and conspired with them that if they gave asylum to nine members of his family he would get the fort gate opened. They accepted this term and asked him to write for them the names of those nine persons. He wrote down the nine names and made them over to them, but acting on his traditional wisdom forgot to write his own name in that list. After settling this he told his people that he has secured protection for them and the gate of the fort should be opened. When the gate was opened Ziyād forces pounced upon them. They said they had been promised protection whereupon Ziyād's army said that this was wrong and that al-Ash'ath had asked protection only for nine members of his house, whose names were preserved with them. In short eight hundred persons were put to sword and hands of several women were chopped off, while according to the settlement nine men were let off, but the case of al-Ash'ath became complicated. Eventually it was decided he should be sent to Abu Bakr and he should decided about him. At last he was sent to Medina in chains along with a thousand women prisoners. On the way relations and others, men and women, all hurled curses at him and the women were calling him traitor and one who got his own people put to sword. Who else can be a greater traitor? However, when he reached Medina Abu Bakr released him and on that occasion he was married to Umm Farwah.
